

Local Ruins

There are three ruined castles in the school district. Robert FitzStephenson built those castles. There is one in each of the following places; Artramont, The Deeps and Ferrycarrig on the parish of Crossabeg in the Barony of Shelmalier. Local tradition is that people dreamt that there was money underneath the castle at Ferrycarrig. On several occasions people dug for it and it was said that when they were about to unearth the crock of gold, a hen and chickens appeared and scratched the clay back in its own place again. There is a dungeon in each of those castles.

There is a ruined church in Artramont and one in Saunderscourt, the one in Saunderscourt was once a Catholic church and it was taken over by the Protestants. There was also a church in Crossabeg and it was burned by the military in 1798.

Written by; Sadie Walsh, Kereight, Co. Wexford